Red Cross Benefits From Local Players and Whist Drive

Local Organizations By Efforts Succeed in Raising Additional Funds for Relief

Three delightful one-act plays presented by Coleman Players on Tuesday were a source of pleasure to those who attended.

"Honeymoon," a farce was the curtain-raiser, with Miss Olga Hole, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. McLintock, Fred Guedar as the cast. Albert F. Short, business manager of the players, sprung a surprise following the play by informing the audience that the play had been written by Mr. Arthur E. Graham, director of the company. The announcement was received with applause as a tribute to Mr. Graham's accomplishment.

The second play, "The Owl," was presented in realistic manner with true melodramatic atmosphere, which kept the audience in a tense state till the curtain fell. Mr. Sidney Short in the leading part, guarding bonds to the value of a million dollars, was innocently induced to take a disguised sleeping draft by his solicitous wife (Miss Hilda Clifford). A nerdy-dowell brother (Arthur E. Graham) breaks into the home, and by trickery gains possession of the bonds. Whilst the wife is endeavoring to gain possession, finding she has been tricked, a police officer (Mr. J. Cousins) has been alarmed by an outside source, and intercepts the thief as he tries to leave. A well played part follows, in which the bonds are regained and the thief escapes with a wound from a revolver fired by the wife. Mr. M. W. Cooke played the part of the butler.

"Brothers-in-Arms" a comedy furnishing plenty of laughs and amusing situations, was well played by Miss Bessie L. Dunlop, Col. R. F. Barnes, Cuthbert W. Devine and Maurice W. Cooke. It had a touch of after-the-war atmosphere, as its title indicates, and the scene of the play was laid in a backwood Canadian hunting camp, where an impatient o'er and his wife were delayed, whilst the occupants related their hunting stories.

L.O.L. Committee Meet Splendid Response in Their Effort for Local Relief.

Turning over $107 to the local Red Cross Society, Coleman L.O.L. have rendered good service to the local relief fund. 32 tables were in play at the whist drive last Saturday, and at the dance following many more attended.

The orchestra, composed of Mrs. Asbridge, Harry Parkinson, Tom Hill and John D'Abreca, gave their services and also put on a fine program.

UNITED CHURCH NOTES

Special Christmas services on Dec. 20th at 11 a.m. and at 7 p.m. To be present at both services. The Christmas message will be preached in the morning.

JUNIOR CHOIR CANTATA

The Junior Choir of St. Paul's United Church will present a Christmas Cantata on Saturday evening, Dec. 19th at 8 o'clock. Admission: Adults 25c, children 15c. Come along and encourage the children after their hard weeks of preparation. The cantata is entitled "Santa in Fairy Land."

"The Religious Miracle" or "Mystery-play" entitled "Let there be Light" will be presented as part of the service of worship on Christmas Sunday evening, Dec. 20th. A "Miracle" or "Mystery-play" is one designed to convey, through the drama, some profound religious truth or principle. In a Christmas setting the play "Let there be Light" seeks to interpret the age-old problem of the meaning and minstry of suffering. For lack of sufficient accommodation, many children under ten years of age must be accompanied by parents.

Christmas Tree on Tues., Dec. 22nd.

ORGANIZATION OF COLEMAN RADIO CLUB

On Sunday, Dec. 12, a group of interested radio listeners met in the council chamber to discuss the advisability of forming a radio club. After some discussion of the advantages and possibilities of a radio club those present decided to go ahead and organize. The following officials were elected: President, Mr. W. H. Hayson; secretary, Mr. D. Hoyle; executive, Rhys Jones, Earl Price, Jas. Moore, Jas. Wilson, A. S. McLintock.

Of the above executive Messrs. Moore, Price and Hoyle were appointed as a committee on inter-ference.

The membership fee was fixed at 25c for the period ending June 30th, 1932.

The present aims of the organization may be summed up in the phrase "to improve radio reception for all listeners." The club is fortunate in having access to equipment for the location of sources of radio interference and a "noise survey" will be under way before these lines appear in print.

Every radio owner will be interested in the activities of this organization and will receive benefit from its work. Membership cards may be obtained from any member of the executive or from the other "originals" who gave the club its start: Jas. Wilson, W. Wilson, H. Chamberlain, Morris Van Dusee.

One For All; All For One

Speaking to the brilliant gathering of celebrities assembled at the recent "Lord Mayor's" banquet at the Guildhall, Premier Ramsay MacDonald declared: "We have been witnessing the complete breakdown of the doctrine of national economic self-sufficiency."

True, but significant words have seldom been uttered, but it is doubtful if people generally have yet come to a full realization of how futile the doctrine of self-sufficiency is, regardless of the fact whether it is applied in the realm of national economics or in the narrower sphere of an individual's life.

Belief that one is sufficient unto oneself is an outgrowth of egotism which in itself is a sign of weakness and a fatal defect in character. Belief in oneself is essential to success, but to take the position that incorporated within ourselves are all the elements essential to success, that nothing more is needed, that we, and we alone, apart from everybody and everything, can achieve, is a mistaken, a fatal attitude.

And what is true of the individual is equally true of nations and peoples. During the progress of the Great War the nations of the world learned that not one of them, no matter how obscure or isolated it might be, nor how great and powerful it might be, could live unto and within itself alone. Not one proved self-sufficient. Rather, the Great War revealed the dependence of one on another, and the interdependence of all.

The Great War was a struggle for the supremacy of one of two conflicting ideas or principles in government—democracy versus autocracy. Either autocracy as represented by the German Kaiser and based on militarism, or democracy as represented by those countries having constitutional governments based on the will of the people governed; had to prevail. Autocracy was defeated and democracy triumphed.

Out of that triumph arose the demand for the "self determination of peoples," and several new nations came into being. Unfortunately, these little nations felt impelled first of all to develop a so-called national spirit, and to attempt to make their new found independence as nations secure, by making themselves supposedly self-contained, self-sufficient. To that end they strove to shut other nations, and the peoples and products of other nations, out. In doing so, they actually shut themselves in. The interdependence taught by the Great War was lost in the nationalistic, economic struggle which succeeded the war.

But, as Ramsay MacDonald points out, this doctrine of national and economic self-sufficiency has completely broken down. One nation suffers loss of trade, and all nations find they, too, are suffering as a result. Unemployment develops in one country and automatically the resultant loss of purchasing power by the citizens of that country brings about unemployment in other countries which formerly did business with it.

The United States is, perhaps, the most compact, self-contained nation in the world today. Its national policies for many decades have been developed in that belief. Yet today the United States is suffering enormous decline in trade, with millions of its people unemployed, with its government facing a deficit this year of the stupendous sum of two billions of dollars. Why? Because the prosperity of the United States is dependent upon the prosperity of other nations; because, despite all its proud boastings in the past, it is not a self-contained country; its self-sufficiency is not sufficient; because, world depression prevails and the United States cannot escape its calamitous results.

The cities and towns of Western Canada, as well, and the doctors, lawyers, bankers, merchants, insurance and financial men, artisans and laborers who make up these urban communities are suffering today because, first of all, the farmers are suffering through loss of crops, low prices for what they have succeeded in producing, inability to market their produce at a profit. Nothing else is wrong with the cities and towns, but the fact that the great primary industry of this country, agriculture, upon which they depend just as truly as do the farmers themselves, has been stricken. The cities and towns are not sufficient unto themselves; they are dependent on the farms. And the farmers, in turn, are dependent upon the great consuming masses in the cities of the world to purchase their produce. Each class is dependent on the other; all are interdependent.

May this great lesson of the war and of these difficult post-war years sink in the consciousness of all people, may it become indelibly engraved in the memories of all, never to be forgotten, may it convince the statesmen of the world that their policies must in future be based in interdependence rather than in self-sufficiency, and founded on a large and broad internationalism rather than in a selfish, narrow nationalism.

When Recovery Will Come

Canada will begin to recover when the world begins to recover, and the world will begin to recover when the impediments to world trade are reduced, war debts cancelled, and the frozen gold piles of the United States and France so melted that they will flow into the coffers of other countries in need of the yellow-metal.

Discussing Support For Canadian Dollar

Heavy Discount Proves Boomerang To United States Business

United States banking and business interests are finding the heavy discount on the Canadian dollar somewhat of a boomerang and are considering action to alleviate their distress.

The New York Herald-Tribune, in a financial page item, remarking that banking interests in this country are taking note of the situation, says there is talk in Wall Street of "support" for the Canadian currency. "It was pointed out" in the paper, "that the further the Canadian dollar declines the more difficult it becomes to do business with Canada. If prices are scaled up to meet the deficiency realized on exchange, it naturally becomes quite impossible to compete with Canadian or British goods in the Dominion. It is reasoned that New York's interests in supporting the Canadian dollar should receive additional support from banks and corporations which have bank balances in Canada. Corporations whose subsidiaries operate in Canada but pay dividends to parent companies on this side of the border should also be interested in supporting the Canadian dollar."

Just what form the "support" would take is not pointed out, but the Herald-Tribune says it is "recognized generally it would be of mutual benefit."

Publication Restricted

Bible Printed In England By Only Three Firms

Only three publishers are allowed to print the Bible in England. They are the Oxford and Cambridge presses and the King's Printer. These publishers have found that "there is money in the Bible," for millions of copies are sold and given away each year. Similar restrictions do not hold in the United States. And one who wishes, may publish the Bible, and, it was recently announced, an "Americanized" version of it will soon be published. The American Bible Society estimates that in 1930 alone, 34,000,000 copies of the Bible, or of sections of it including one book or more, were sold or presented to those who could not afford to purchase them.

Colonization Progress

Many People Settled On Land Under Government Policy

The policy of encouraging colonization within Canada, instituted in September last year by Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration, and conducted in the form of a co-ordinated effort by the department and railway companies, has resulted in return to the land of approximately 42,882 people, according to a statement made public at Ottawa.

Settled returns to November 30, 1931, show a total of 6,040 families and 42,882 single men have been placed in farms since October 1, 1930, the former as settlers and the single men as farm laborers.

Cultural Value Zero

Replying to a questionnaire sent him by a New York college organ, H. L. Mencken, author, stated the attention of college students at United States universities is concentrated upon mean and trivial things. Very few of the professors who teach them "are really civilized men, and relatively few of the students come from civilized homes."

Thus, the cultural value of the college tends to zero."

British People Like Candy

The sweet-toothed people of the British Isles consume over $250,000,000 worth of candies in a year. Half this amount is spent on chocolates. In addition to this Great Britain exports over $10,000,000 worth of candies annually.

Federal Bird Sanctuaries

Canada now has 40 federal bird sanctuaries across the Dominion. Surveys indicate that these sanctuaries are effective in preserving bird life. A census of birds in a group of ten reservations on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River in 1930 showed an average increase of all varieties of 19 per cent. since the year 1925.

Urge Use Of Home Products

Building Industry Said To Be Importing Huge Quantities Of Materials

An indictment of the building industry for importing millions of dollars' worth of materials annually, at the expense of similar produced-in-Canada goods is made in a survey released by the Montreal Industrial Commission on unemployment. The survey, based on a year's work by Norman Holland, chairman of the commission, will be mailed to all members of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada, it is announced.

Canada imported from the United States in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1931, building material valued at $26,945,437. The document deals with approximately 80 separate foreign products which, it is claimed, investigation shows, were used in Canadian buildings.

Summing up, the document gives the following belief of the unemployment commission: "We believe if an independent commission were given authority to check over all specifications for such buildings as receive financial support from the public of Canada, this would bring back to Canadian factories in one year at least half of the $27,000,000 worth of business which now goes to foreign countries."

X-Ray Reveals Troubles Of People Who Lived 2,000 Years Ago

In ancient Egypt at least four out of five persons had pyorrhea, childhood was no hygienic bed of roses, and arthritis and arteriosclerosis presumably were favorite topics when the elders swapped clinical notes.

These discoveries summarized after two years' study, at the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago, where scientists diverted X-rays from modern medical problems to historical secrets, focused them back over the centuries, and conducted autopsies on persons dead 2,000 years.

Interesting Statistics

Show Indians In Canada Are Thrifty and Prosperous

The census of Indians in Canada in 1929 gave the total number of men, women and children as 108,012. These are, of course, not all farmers, some being engaged in hunting and trapping, in lumbering, commercial fishing, and in transportation.

However, according to the records of the Department of Indian Affairs, they had in the above year all told 1,101,175 acres of land fenced and 236,028 acres under actual cultivation. Other figures relating to the whole Indian community are: Brick, stone or frame dwellings, 9,442; other dwellings (mostly log), 11,830; churches, 358; council houses, 124; schoolhouses, 260; sawmills, 32. In addition to the number of day schoolhouses, there are 78 residential schools devoted to the education of the Indian population.

Canadian People Are Buying More Luxuries

Indicates Confidence In General Improvement Of Economic Conditions

The Canadian public has been purchasing more luxuries recently than for months past, indicating a possible loosening up of ready money and a more general confidence throughout the Dominion in the general improvement of economic conditions, states the department of trade and commerce in a statistical review.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics says the review, reports larger retail sales of radio and other musical instruments in October than in any month since last December. Sales by candy stores also were greater. Retail sales by furniture stores and by general department stores also were reported larger.

Italian Ship Founders In Mediterranean And Thirty Sailors Drowned

Maddalena, Sardinia. — Thirty sailors and marines were thought to have drowned when the Italian tug "Teseo" sank in a storm off the coast of Sardinia.

More than 100 persons were rescued by the cruiser "Trieste" after hours of struggling efforts to launch boats and shoot life lines to the foundering vessel.

The "Teseo" ran into a terrific gale after leaving here for Civita Vecchia, 300 miles across the Tyrrhenian Sea, on the Italian mainland. It lost its rudder and its masts were swept away. After 12 hours it was only 20 miles from this coast.

The tug sent out several S.O.S. calls and the Italian Ministry of Marine sent boats to the tug's rescue from Spezia, Civita Vecchia and Sardinian ports.

The "Trieste" rode back and forth, close to the foundering boat, for four hours, shooting lines that fell short and trying to launch boats in the violent seas.

The "Teseo" finally sank at 9:30 a.m., after nearly 100 men had been rescued by the "Trieste," which picked up a few more before the cruiser put back to port, leaving the cruiser "Ancona" on the spot, searching for other survivors or bodies of the drowned.

France Taxes Canadian Goods

Are Exempt If Coming Through From Other Lands

Paris. — A decree imposing 15 per cent ad valorem tax on products of Argentina and Uruguay and an 11 per cent tax on Canadian goods to compensate for the indirect tax exemptions enjoyed by those countries owing to depreciation of their currencies, was published in the official journal.

Goods proved to be passing through those countries from other lands are exempt from the surtax and goods already on the way before the decree was promulgated remain subject to previous regulations.

Want Quota Broadened

Council Of Agriculture For England Would Include Barley

London, England. — The council of agriculture for England adopted a resolution asking that government proposals for a wheat quota should be broadened to include malting barley and that anti-dumping tariffs should be applied to imports of wheat and barley and made effective for the 1931 crop.

Sir John Gilmour, minister of agriculture, in a speech before the council, promised further measures dealing with the agricultural industry would be forthcoming shortly.

Allahabad, India. — A hundred thousand peasants in 800 villages throughout this district, took part in "no rent" demonstrations and swore a common oath to refuse payment of rent. The proceedings were supervised by members of the National Congress.

Raw Material Bought By Canada Through States Benefits American Firms

Winnipeg, Man.—Plans to free Canadian trade from the tribute it now pays to banking, brokerage, shipping and warehousing services in the United States are being studied by the Dominion Government, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, stated here. Already, he said, negotiations have been entered with three branches of manufacturing industry to induce them to cease buying imported raw materials through United States agencies.

The recent drop in the value of the Canadian dollar in New York, Mr. Stevens said, had demonstrated more forcibly than ever before that Canada was too dependent on the United States.

Every year, the Minister said, this country imported millions of dollars worth of rubber from the East Indies, millions of dollars worth of hides from the Argentine, large quantities of wool from New Zealand and coffee from Brazil and silk from

Industry Must Prepare For Imperial Conference

If It Is To Result In Intimate Economic Partnership

London, Eng.—Industry throughout the Empire must organize itself and take a leading part in the preparations for the Ottawa Imperial Conference, says the London Times, in an editorial headed "Industries and Ottawa." It expressed the opinion great satisfaction will be manifested throughout the Empire after Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Dominion Secretary, makes his statement to the House of Commons.

"But," adds the Times, "much more than government departmental preparation is required to make the Ottawa conference a success. Industries themselves, both here and in the Dominions, must prepare if the conference is to result in intimate economic partnership. It should, therefore, be clearly the enunciation of the British government's policy should be definite enough to encourage industries to start preparation."

British People Help In Financial Distress

Give Valuables For Auction Bringing $3,700 To Treasury

London, Eng.—The national treasury gained about $3,700 when jewelry, gold coins and trinkets, gifts to the nation in its day of financial distress, were auctioned. It was the most unique sale in the long history of Christie's.

The valuable items were sent to Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden in the last days of his chancellorship by people in all stations of life. They represented tangible sacrifice to the nation—some from obscure women and we the sole remaining relics of their younger days when their families were prosperous. Each gift was auctioned separately so the donor might know the amount subscribed to the treasury.

Among the coins were two pounds minted for President Kruger of South Africa, a gold five-pound piece and a gold spade guinea.

New York, N.Y.—With Miss Eleanor Cushman of New Bradford, Mass., as a voluntary assistant, Sir Wilfrid Grenfell, Labrador explorer and social guardian, sailed for Europe in quest of $100,000 to meet a deficit in his altruistic operations. He said the numerous orphanages, hospitals and other foundations required $210,000 for the next year, with only $110,000 available.

Critical Of League

Manchester, England.—The Manchester Guardian, which has been critical of the League of Nations during the current Mauritian debate, carried an editorial describing the league council's efforts to solve the dispute as "tutic and weak efforts which have only served to make the league contemptible in the eyes of the world."

Supreme Court Judge Dead

Hon. Edmund L. Newcombe Taken Ill During November Session

Ottawa, Ont.—A justice of the supreme court of Canada since 1924, Hon. Edmund L. Newcombe, C.M.G., 72, died.

He was present at the beginning of the November session of the supreme court, but took ill during the sitting.

He was born in Cornwallis, Nova Scotia, and received his education in that province. He graduated from Dalhousie with the degree of bachelor of arts when 19 years old, and completed his law course in 1881. He was called to the bar in 1883, and in 1893 he was admitted to the bar of Ontario, and the same year was appointed queen's counsel. On March 13, 1893, Mr. Newcombe was appointed deputy minister of justice.

From 1902 to 1905 Mr. Newcombe was chairman of the select committee appointed to revise the statutes of Canada. In 1905, he was Canadian delegate to Great Britain on the conference over copyright legislation. He was associate British agent and counsel for Canada in the pecuniary claims against Great Britain and the United States, principal agent for his Majesty's Government for prize cases in Canada; chairman of the Military Service Council of 1917-18, member ex-officio of the Canada Registration Board.

Asks Investigation Of Factory Exodus

Tariffs Blamed For Exodus Of Plants To Canada

Washington, D.C.—The exodus of factories from the United States to Canada with the subject of protection introduced into Congress by Representative H. C. Canfield, Democrat of Indiana, Mr. Canfield called for a commission to investigate.

"It is not the purpose of this commission to demonstrate to the country that the reason for the factory situation is the tariff," said Mr. Canfield.

"I didn't say that," said Mr. Canfield, "but I think everybody knows that is the reason factories are going away."

The representative said he had observed that many factories were going to Canada and that there must be a reason. He had investigated and discovered that labor conditions in Canada were about the same as in the United States.

Therefore, he had concluded for a congressional commission to investigate.

Champion Jumper Married

Toronto, Ont.—The champion girl high jumper of the world and most beautiful girl athlete at the last Olympic games, Miss Ethel Catthorpe, has been married for more than two years to James McLaren, a young business man of this city, and the fact has been kept a close secret. On November 25, 1929, Rev. R. S. Laidlow of Erskine United Church performed the ceremony. On the marriage license the bride's age is given as 21 and the groom's as 22.

Population Of France

Paris, France.—The total population of France is 41,834,923, complete returns from the census conducted last spring revealed.

The department of the Seine, which includes Paris, has 4,933,855 inhabitants. The increase in all France since 1926 was 1,091,976.

PREPARING TO MEET THE PROBLEM

Lord Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada (left), and Premier R. Bennett (right), have been seen discussing plans for the National Emergency Fund appeal, which the Prime Minister had just announced, and which is to meet distress and suffering in Canada this winter. Mr. Bennett lays the matter before His Excellency who, as President of the Red Cross, promises the Society's fullest co-operation in helping to collect and administer this Fund.

Ontario Aids Farm Holders

Forbids Foreclosure Of Any Mortgage Held By Province

Toronto, Ont.—The Ontario Government has voted to prohibit a Provincial Agricultural Development Board—which holds $35,000,000 of farm mortgages—not to foreclose under any circumstances when mortgagees are unable to meet their obligation. Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General and Acting Premier announced. The step is being taken in order to give farmers every opportunity to weather present financial difficulties.

The Attorney-General revealed the action of the government in regard to farm mortgages during the course of an announcement that the government would bring down legislation at the next session of the legislature to provide for a modified moratorium on mortgages.

"We realize that in these times of financial stress, people who otherwise would be able to meet their payments are in considerable difficulty and the government is anxious to help them over this period of financial stringency," said Col. Price.

"I have asked loan companies to be lenient in this regard and I have also approached sheriffs and bailiffs and made the same request. But there is no legislation at present providing for relief and the government intends to have the entire matter discussed on the floor of the legislature with a view to some form of legislation."

More Demand For Wheat

Canada Will Have 245,000,000 Bushels Available For Export

Montreal, Que.—Wheat importing countries have responded to the knowledge that world harvests will be smaller this year and that a substantial reduction will be made in the carry-over from previous crops, says the monthly economic letter of the Royal Bank. This has quickened the demand for wheat, resulting in upward price movement. Canada has shared in the increased exports, shipments being larger in volume than for many months.

Moroccan natives, after a disheartening struggle for 15 miles over the ice to the "Psychim" frozen in when the Arctic winter caught her before she could escape to open water in the south, brought back ten bales of valuable furs.

The bank's letter says Canada will have 248,000,000 bushels available for export for the current season, compared with the five-year average of 255,000,000 bushels. The world's available surplus is placed at 986,000,000 bushels, compared with 1,132,000,000 bushels last year.

Well Known Editor Dies

Portage La Prairie, Man.—George R. Porter, 60, editor of the "Prairie Daily Graphic," died yesterday. Well known throughout western Canada, Mr. Porter came from Boston, Mass., in 1908 and after working on a weekly in Neepawa for a short time, came to Portage la Prairie.

London, England.—Establishment of an empire wheat quota is overshadowed as one of the probable results of the Ottawa Imperial Conference. Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Dominions, told the House of Commons the Government was committed to the scheme.

Great Britain was prepared to approach the conference with the one purpose of empire solidarity and unity. A wheat quota would be offered to the Dominions in return for "real, genuine compensation." Canada, for instance, might say "we are interested mainly in wheat" and from the standpoint of Great Britain, "the most important, and indeed the only, factor is what they will do with regard to our manufacturer," said Mr. Thomas.

"Let there be no mistake," he proceeded, "we may be called upon to give up ideas and ideals and fiscal views we have long held, but let us do it quite clearly, realizing the advantages. Do not let the Dominions forget the great sacrifices that we may be called upon to make. If we enter the conference in that spirit of single-minded desire, not to see what we can get out of it, but what we can give, who can blame us if, in these changing and difficult times, we are anxious to utilize them to the full maximum for the advantage of the empire as a whole?"

The Government now had the cooperation of the British millers, said Mr. Thomas. The quota would not be on a guaranteed basis but on world prices.

Invitations had been extended to the Dominions to send competent and practical representatives to Great Britain, in advance of the conference, to work out details of their mutual problems, said the Dominions' Secretary. That, he added, was the best evidence of the Government's anxiety to see that no detailed examination would be lacking.

Referring to the recent announcement by Rt. Hon. Nevile Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, that no binding trade agreements would be made by Great Britain in advance of the Imperial Conference, Mr. Thomas said there would be no greater contribution than that, when consideration was given to world conditions.

Closed Season Not Needed

Edmonton, Alberta.—There is no need for a closed season on ducks in 1930 in the central and northern parts of Alberta, according to a resolution passed at a meeting here of the Edmonton branch, Alberta Fish and Game Protection Association. The members went on record as opposed to a closed season next year.

British Columbia Presents Plans For Reorganization To Railway Commission

Victoria, B.C.—The royal commission on transportation heard argument in favor of a Peace River outlet to the Pacific Coast and the presentation of a number of views on the manner in which some of the railway problems of Canada might be solved, at a public meeting in the court house here.

The commission announced that it would receive in writing a presentation from the British Columbia Government regarding the problems of the provincially owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

Ridgeway R. Wilson, of Fernie, B.C., representing mining interests, urged the best and cheapest way to develop additional traffic for the western railway divisions was to extend a line into the northern territory of the Peace River area by way of Peace Pass. He said this connection would open up an empire of new mineral wealth, with new towns, increase the revenues of the railways, solve the Pacific Great Eastern problem, and largely solve the unemployment problem of western Canada.

T. D. Pattullo, provincial Liberal leader, urged that it was the duty of the Dominion Government to determine the Peace River outlet issue.

concerning which, he said, it was reported that there was disagreement between the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways.

S. R. Ross, representing agricultural interests, urged an arrangement between the railways by which all freight would be handled over the Canadian National mountain lines, because, he said, one locomotive could handle 60 cars on the Canadian National grades as against 20 cars on the Canadian Pacific grades.

Forty per cent of the railway traffic of the Canadian Pacific was derived from agriculture, Mr. Ross stated. He protested against the Canadian Pacific having, according to his claim, turned $64,000,000 of profit derived from such traffic in the last ten years, to building new ships and other developments, instead of lowering freight rates for farm producers. He also recommended the cutting out of all railroad duplication across Canada.

Alderman W. T. Strait and D. S. Tait, representing the City of Victoria, grain elevator interests here, alleged lack of co-operation between the two railways in regard to matters here.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

A week from to-morrow will be Christmas Day. Greetings will be exchanged, people will be rejoicing and children will have realized the anticipation of many weeks. Harried parents will be recovering from last minute shopping.

Christmas will be a real holiday this year for the postmasters throughout the country. Heretofore on holidays the government decreed that offices be open for one hour. The postmaster's nerves would be set on edge by a wild scramble for last minute parcels and mail, and instead of others helping him to enjoy a merry Christmas, he would go home with frayed nerves. This is ended. He can lock up the office on Christmas Eve, and rest secure from all assaults till the morning after Christmas. The same applies to New Year's, and it should also apply to every statutory holiday throughout the year. We hope the postmasters doubly enjoy their Christmas, whilst the heathen rage vainly at post-office doors and curse the government.

The latest organization to be formed locally is a radio club. They will set out to clean up the air. It certainly needs it, and after they have cleaned up some of the local interference, they might start in to clean up some of the B.L.A.H. that confounds the senses and tempts one to reach for the axe. Radio is a fine thing; it is a benefit to the human race; but the pests, such as "crooners," jazz orchestras with syncopated musical rotgut, and those "twice a day" and "kind to your throat" nuisances from whom there is no escape except by shutting off the damned thing should be relegated to the region where a snowball disappears very quickly.

Ministers throughout the land complain that church attendance is far below what it should be. There are many reasons. Attractions, parties, radio, keep people away from church. But the church is not without cause. A church service should be an occasion of praise and thanksgiving, with a message of inspiration to help carry on through the week. Often it savors of something more depressing than a funeral service, with recriminations against those who do not go to church. This will not help to fill churches, and will tend to keep away the faithful few who do attend.

It is the easiest thing in the world to be critical. Preachers and laymen indulge in criticism. It reminds one of the family returning from church. Father criticized the preacher, mother criticized the singing, the daughters criticized other people's style, and the boy chipped in with "What d'ya expect for a penny?"

Joking aside, there is so much that can be held up as a shining example in the life of Him whose birthday the whole world will celebrate next week, that inspiration should be given at a church service to carry us more cheerfully through the week. Then possibly we will have found it of such assistance that we will eagerly look forward to next Sunday for renewing our cheerful outlook on life.

Business men who complain of hard times give every one a pain, themselves included. Investigation frequently proves they are to blame. The bright and early bird, who displays his merchandise in an attractive manner, greets the public with a cheerful air, and radiates goodwill, will not be found complaining of hard times. He is too busily engaged trying to make better times—and he invariably does!

Make up our minds, we must, that times are never going to be as they were. The world is moving along, and human progress never ceases. The fellow who does not realize this and still sticks to the same old ways and the same old outlook will be left out in the cold. The public does not care a rap about one's business troubles. You are soon forgotten, and the less active you are the more quickly you fade completely out of the picture.

Some advice on competition is given by H. E. Stephen-son, secretary of A. McKim Limited, of Montreal.

"If competition is getting the better of you, don't blame the competition on your customers, look for your own weak point, figure out new plans of attack for yourself and put them into effect. You have no God-given right to anybody's trade except, first, that you give a service that warrants it. You, however, know your people, have brains and energy to use and all the advertising tools at your service."

Mahatma Gandhi is striving for self-government. He desires the same freedom for India as the Irish Free State, Australia and Canada enjoy. Yet some style him a hypocrite. Gandhi is a sincere patriot for his country.

Here and There

Grain yields ranging from 38 to 75 bushels to the acre are reported from eastern Alberta, according to information reaching the Agricultural Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

A tree-planting plan on a large scale to extend over a ten-year period has been inaugurated in Saskatchewan. It will embrace the whole prairie section of the province and is to be started at once.

Establishing a new record for club dinners, a dinner recently staged by the Canadian Pacific Express Company went from Southampton to Vancouver in nine days. It came over on the Empire of Britain to Quebec in less than five days.

The Royal York, largest hotel in the British Empire, recently staged the largest bridge and fashion show ever held when over 1,100 bridge tables were in operation and nearly 5,000 guests attended the function. It was held in aid of unemployment relief funds.

P. G. Wodehouse, world-famous novelist and humorist, will write his next novel aboard the Express of Britain during the world cruise which starts December 3 from New York. It will be a continuation of the story of "Jeeves" who has already figured in several of his best sellers.

Butter production in Canada for the first seven months of 1931 increased 25,379,726 pounds or 16.5 per cent over the production for the corresponding period of 1930. Exports in the same period were 5,149,500 pounds or nearly 4,000,000 pounds more than in the same seven months last year.

Certainly a sensational, if not an all time, record for a lady big game hunter was recently established in New Brunswick when Mrs. Walter R. Peterson of North Haven, Maine, shot a moose, two buck deer and a bear during a hunting trip in the Serpentine section of the Tobique district of that province.

Catfish leather may eventually win favour with the lady of fashion for her handbag or shoes. Not until recently a mink had been found for catfish caught in Nova Scotia, but a firm of leather manufacturers in the United States has found that a soft and pliable product can be made from the skins of catfish.

Radio is to be used for promoting correspondence schools courses in architecture. McGill University is offered by the Canadian Radio Broadcast Company, subject to competitive examination, to its apprentices and other employees under 21 years of age, and to minor sons of employees. Marks in subjects required for admission to the University will be awarded the scholarship. (796)

National Emergency Appeal

The National Emergency Relief Fund to raise $100,000 in Alberta opened on Dec. 10, and in Lethbridge the response has been very generous. Blairmore has organized, and was given a good start with a contribution of $250 from the town council.

Coleman will contribute towards this nation-wide appeal, and though it is not intended to conflict with the local organization, yet it is believed that the national campaign should receive a measure of support, for it is never known when any of these mining towns might require aid from the national fund in the event of a disaster which would require more than the resources of the district could provide. We are also helping to aid the less fortunate.

Mayor Moores opened the list with a contribution of $500, and with other donations it is hoped that a substantial sum will be collected.

Mayor Moores suggested that all who are in steady employment give a minimum of $1.00 and that lists be placed at the mines. Many will doubtless be able to give more. The campaign is sponsored by the town council and board of trade, and the public is reminded that it would have a lot of work in canvassing if they were to hand in their subscriptions to W. L. Rippon, secretary, Bank of Commerce, or to H. T. Halliwell, Journal office, president of the board of trade.

The contributions will be acknowledged through The Journal, with the total each week. Everyone can help a little. A receipt will be issued for each subscription and the list forwarded to Lethbridge district office on completion.

The Journal office will print 100 good quality envelopes for $1.00, or 100 letter size paper for $1.00, print-

Some Observations on Curling

By F. J. B. in Cranbrook Courier

Curling, like the 'flu or the seven years' itch, when it gets in the blood it is hard to shake it off. It attacks the victim at the first freezing of ice, subsides a little during the January thaw, and then takes a fresh hold and hangs on until the spring rays of the sun covers the rink with water. These men are normal at all other times, but when the attack is on they leave home like a tōmcat and don't show up for days. They have been known to take their blankets with them. This drives the women folk frantic, for while the spell is on, no coal is carried in nor ashes carried out.

But the women are not to be outwitted. Many of them have become curlers, and good ones, too. Notice at Chapman Camp these "curling widows" have organized what they call the "Brides' Curling Club," and the Kimberley Courier—Correspondent wonders if before the winter is over, the husbands will not become "bridge widowers."

The supreme test of a real curler is when if business interferes with his curling, he cuts out the business. Was talking the other day with A. A. MacKinnon, who is an old curling enthusiast. He recalled the old days at Kaslo, thirty years ago or more, when he was on the late G. O. Buchanan's team. "G. O.," as everybody called him, was running a sawmill, and besides was an ardent devotee of the "tearin' game." MacKinnon was working for him and was also on his team, along with some of his other employees. There was a "spit" on at Nelson, and despite several rush orders at the mill, it was closed down while "G. O." and his broom wielders attended, and thus the well known motto was adhered to.

Means Valuable Saving

Canada's Energy Requirements Met By Water-Power Industry

The water-power industry in Canada supplies nearly the entire energy requirements of the country, exclusive of that utilized for steam railways, automobiles, etc., and as a further measure of its importance it may be mentioned that the capital investment involved is rapidly approaching a billion and a half dollars. The records of the Dominion Water Power and Hydroelectric Bureau, Department of the Interior, show that during the upward of twenty billion kilowatts of energy were produced which, using the figure for the average coal consumption per kilowatt produced in the public utility plants in the United States, indicates an actual saving of 17,500,000 tons of coal in 1930. When we consider that for a stretch of upwards of 2,000 miles across Canada no coal mines exist the value of this saving becomes apparent.

On the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the organization of the Red army's first regular cavalry detachment a special stamp which bears a design strikingly similar to the traditional picturizations of the four horsemen of the Apocalypse, was issued by the Soviet Government. Four riders are shown in a mad race across the face of the stamp, which is roughly outlined a copy of the European section of the Soviet Union. The first of the horsemen pictured carries a large red banner; his three companions, each leaning far forward on his horse, carry their weapons above their heads.

North Country Brought Close To Civilization

Remote Settlements Served By Chain Of Wireless Stations

Ten years ago communication between points within the North West Territories and the world at large involved a delay of weeks during the summer season and months during the winter. Seven years ago the Department of the Interior, through its North West Territories and Yukon Branch, took the first step towards bringing the north country closer to civilization. With Edmonton as a base a chain of wireless stations was built which served Simpson on the Mackenzie River as well as Dawson and Mayo in the Yukon Territory. Since that year the northern wireless system has been extended until today Fort Smith, Resolution, Simpson, Norman, Aklavik, and Herschel Island on the west with Coppermine and Chesterfield Inlet to the east are equipped with wireless offices, which handle ordinary commercial messages to and from all parts of the world. In addition some of the more northerly offices are equipped with broadcasting plants by means of which they are enabled to relay commercial messages and daily news bulletins to the more remote settlements.

Fine Samples Of Wheat and Oats Were Exhibited

With a view to producing grain of sufficiently high quality to exhibit at the World's Grain Show at Regina, Sask., in 1933, the Prince Albert Board of Trade staged a grain show recently.

The samples exhibited were produced from seed sent out by the board to the most successful growers of the district. There were 15 lots of Reward wheat sent out in five-bushel lots, and ten lots of Marvelous fine of five bushels each.

The exhibit showed fine results in both classes, the winners being chosen for plumpness, soundness, colour freedom from disease and from other varieties of grain.

Professor Manley Champain, of the Field Husbandry Department, Saskatchewan University, was the judge. The yield of the grain on exhibit was: Wheat, 40 to 50 bushels per acre; oats, 90 to 100 bushels per acre. There were 20 exhibitors in all. First, second and third prizes were awarded in both classes and comprised three, two and one sack of the best grade of flour produced by the Waskesiu Milling Company.

Taxes are high—federal, provincial and municipal—entirely too high, most people think. But it is necessary to the average man that out of every dollar earned received by the Dominion Government, forty dollars go to pay for the cost of the recent war? The interest on the war debt, pensions for disabled men, provisions for the care of dependents of those killed in the war, etc., cost the country that tremendous proportion of our national income. And it will so continue so long as most of us live.

That cannot be avoided now and most of the other nations are in the same boat. But there should be a lesson in it for all of them. Have they learned the lesson? Not so that anyone can notice it. They are spending more for war preparations right now than ever before.—Kitchener Record.

Floodlighting For Ships

Merchant ships will soon adopt the style of large buildings and monuments and go to sea floodlighted in a way that will make their identity clear at great distances, in the opinion of Samuel G. Hihen, manager of the engineering department of the Westinghouse Lamp Company. Foreign lines have already developed the idea, notably the North German Lloyd, whose liner "Europa" carries a large electric sign amidships on each side blazing forth her name.

New Radio Microphone

A new radio microphone weighing two and a half pounds, about three inches in diameter and of approximately the same thickness, has been perfected. It can be operated efficiently in rainy weather or in any position. It requires no local amplifier or battery such as is employed with the condenser microphone.

"The compass," said the young man, "who knew a lot about everything, always points north, you see."

"Then it's just too bad," sighed the beautiful girl, "if you happen to want to go south, isn't it?"

Production Falls Behind

Government Has Failed To Complete 1931 Program

The Communist newspaper "Pravda" admits that Soviet Russia had failed to fulfill its 1931 program under the five-year plan in certain branches of industry, but predicted that the entire plan would be more than fulfilled in four years, or by the end of 1932.

Industrial production for the first 10 months of 1931 was only 19.4 per cent. over that of 1930, the newspaper said, whereas the plan called for a 45 per cent. increase for the whole year in comparison with last.

THE HOUSE OF DREAMS-COME-TRUE

BY
MARGARET PEDLER

Author Of
"Splendid Folly," "The Hermit"
"Mother & Son," "The Hostess"

The idea that she might be an unwelcome guest at Staple filled Jean with lively consternation, and by the time she had accomplished the necessary change of train at Exeter, and found herself being trundled along on the leisurely branch line which conducted her to her ultimate destination, she had succeeded in working herself up into a condition that almost verged upon panic.

"Coombie Ee-vel! Coombie Ee-vel!"

The sing-song intonation of a dressed-looking porter, first rising from a low note to a higher, then descending in contrary motion abruptly from high to low, was punctuated by the sharper, clipped pronouncement of the stationmaster as he hustled up the length of the platform declaiming "Meave! Meave! Meave!" with a maddeningly insistent repetition that reminded one of a cuckoo in June.

Apparently both stationmaster and porter were too much absorbed in the frenzied strophe and antistrophe effect they were producing to observe that any passenger, handicapped by luggage, contemplated descending from the train. Jean, however, were of these occurrences at Coombie Ee-vel and Jean therefore hastened to transfer herself and her baggage to the platform unassisted. A minute later the train ambled on its way again, leaving the stationmaster and the depressed porter grouped in astonished admiration before the numerous trunks and suitcases, labelled "Peterson," which the luggage van of the departing train had vomited forth.

To the bucolic mind, such an unworked accumulation argued a passenger of quite superlative importance, and with one accord the combined glances of the station staff raked the diminutive platform, to discover Jean standing somewhat formally in the middle of it, surrounded by the smaller fry of her luggage. The stationmaster hurried forward immediately to do the honours, and Jean addressed him eagerly.

"I want a faerie—cab—correcting herself hastily—"to take me to Sta-
-pital Manor."

The man shook his head.

"There are no cabs here, miss," he informed her regretfully. "Anyone that wants to be met orders Womscott's wagonette in advance." Then, seeing Jean's face had turned pale, he continued hurriedly: "In these days we expect you up at Staple, miss, then I'll send one of the cars to meet you. There!"—triumphantly, as the chug-chug of an approaching motor came to them clearly the crisp, cold-air—"that'll be it, for certain."

Followed the sound of a car breaking to a standstill in the road outside the station, and almost immediately a masculine figure appeared advancing rapidly from the lower end of the platform.

Even through the dusk of the winter's afternoon Jean was struck by something curiously familiar in the man's easy, swinging stride. A surge of memories came flooding over her.

and she felt her breath catch in her throat at the sudden possibility which flashed into her mind. For an instant she was in doubt—the thing seemed so amazingly improbable. Then, touching his hat, the stationmaster moved respectfully aside, and she found herself face to face with the unknown Englishman from Montavon.

She gazed at him speechlessly, and for a moment he, too, seemed taken aback. His eyes met hers in a startled, lessening glance of recognition and something more, something that set her pulses racing instead.

"Little—nothing!" he would have sworn the words escaped him. Then, almost in the same instant: she saw the old, rather weary gravity replace the sudden fire that had blazed up in the man's eyes, quenching it like light.

"So—you are Miss Peterson?"

There was no pleasure, no welcome in his tones; rather, an undercurrent of ironical vexation as though Montavon had played some surcuse trick upon him.

"Yes." The brief monosyllable came baldly in reply; she hardly knew how to answer him, how to meet his mood. Then, hastily calling up her reserves she went on lightly: "You don't seem very pleased to see me. Shall I go again?"

His mouth relaxed into a grim smile.

"Montavon isn't Clapham Junction," he answered tersely. "There won't be a train till ten o'clock tonight."

A glint of humour danced in Jean's eyes.

"Is that case," she returned gravely, "what do you advise?"

"I don't advise" he replied promptly. "I apologize. Please forgive such an ungracious reception Miss Peterson—but you must acknowledge this was something in the nature of a surprise to find that you were—you!"

Jean laughed.

"It's given you an unfair advantage, too," she replied. "I still haven't penetrated your incognito—but I suppose you are Mr. Brennan?"

"No. Nick Brennan's my half-brother. I'm Blasie Tornmarin, and as my mother was unable to meet you herself, I came instead. Shall we—? I'll give the stationmaster instructions about your luggage."

So the unknown Englishman of Montavon was the man of whom the two women at the neighbouring lunch table in the hotel had been gossiping—the central figure of that most tragic love-affair! Jean thought she could discern now, the origin of some of the enigmatic comments he had set fall when they were together in the mountains.

In silence she followed him out of the little wayside station to where the big head-lamps of a stationary car shed a blaze of light on the roadway, and presently they were slipping smoothly along between the high hedge which flanked the road on either hand.

CHAPTER IX.

The Master Of Style

It was too dark to distinguish details as the big car flew along, but Jean found herself yielding instinctively to the still, mysterious charm of the country-side at even.

A slender young moon drifted like a curled petal in the dusky blue of the calm sky, its pale light faintly outlining the tops of the trees and the dim, gracious curves of distant hills, and touching the mist that filled the valley to a nebulosity, pale gillmire, that to Jean's eager eyes the foot of the hill seemed laved by some phantom sea of faery.

She felt no inclination to talk. The smooth rhythm of the pulsing car, the cool sweetness of the evening air, against her face, the shadowy, half-revealed shapes, all combined to pull her into a mood of trancelike apathy, sleep and restful after the fatigue of her journey and the shock of her unexpected meeting with the Englishman from Montavon. She knew that later she would have to take up the thread of things again, adjust her mind to the day's surprising developments, but just for the moment she was content to let everything else slide and simply enjoy this first exquisite revelation of twilit Devon.

For a long time they drove in silence, Tornmarin seeming no more disposed to talk than she herself.

Presently, however, he slowed the car down and, half-turning in his seat, addressed her abruptly.

"This is somewhat in the nature of an anti-climax," he remarked, the comment quite evidently springing from the thoughts which had been absorbing him.

He spoke curtly, as though he resented the march of events. Jean felt herself jolted suddenly out of the placid reverie into which she had fallen.

"Yes. It is odd we should meet again so soon," she asserted hurriedly.

"The silence has been broken after all! You may be sure, Miss Peterson, it was by no will of mine." Jean smiled under cover of the darkness.

"You're not very complimentary," she returned. "I'm sorry our meeting seems to afford you so little satisfaction." There was a ripple of laughter in her tones.

"It's not that." As he spoke, he slackened speed until the car was at a standstill, lessening glances of recognition and something more, something that set her pulses racing instead.

"Little—nothing!" he would have sworn the words escaped him. Then, almost in the same instant: she saw the old, rather weary gravity replace the sudden fire that had blazed up in the man's eyes, quenching it like light.

Invents New Airplane

Machine With No Propeller Result Of Twenty Years Study

Dr. Raimund Nimmerfuhr, the Austrian scientist, who has invented an airplane built like a humming bird, started years ago to figure out how much energy a gnat would use if it had a wing spread of forty feet. Ten horse-power was the answer. A cabled description of his wing-dapping plane, with no propeller, marks the climax of twenty years of patient study, based on an effort to copy the methods of nature in the flight of a bird. The wings which carry a flexible mechanism on the wings. They pulsate or vibrate rapidly in response to a pneumatic mechanism.

Professor of aerodynamics at the University of Vienna, where he obtained his doctor's degree, Dr. Nimmerfuhr wrote many books and theses on aviation meteorology. His book, "How All Men Will Fly," an exposition of his bird-plane theory, attracted widespread attention. In 1921 his theories were investigated by Herr Scheneweg, chief of the Zeppelin Works, and Herr Skopl of the Fokker designing staff. They joined the directorate of the "Nimmerfuhr Segelflug Syndikat" at a time when French and American capitalists were also investigating. While his ideas were approved, they insisted upon a successful flight before advancing money, and it required another decade, with money raised by public subscription, to make the forthcoming test possible. The aviators here say that the new bird-plane is worth watching.

A Semi-War Spirit

Each Country Desires To Produce What Of Requirements

One of the main causes of the present lack of balance between production and consumption is undoubtedly economic nationalism: that is to say, the desire of each country itself to produce the whole of its requirements. This is in effect a semi-war spirit. In all countries the Protectionist movement comes straight from the feeling that other countries are partial, or at any rate, potential enemies.

As a result, we find that wherever a political barrier is created there is a tendency to set up economic barriers. Directly the Irish attained Home Rule, they imposed tariffs on English goods, and it is fairly certain that if the different states of Australia were to be federated they would at once establish trade barriers against one another. As long as this spirit of economic nationalism exists we shall not make much progress towards settling the world problem of the lack of balance between production and consumption.—Speculator, London, England.

Playing Chess By Radio

What is believed to be the first inter-university chess match ever played by radio was recently held between Sydney and Melbourne Universities teams in Australia. The teams comprised under-graduates and graduates of not more than three years' standing, and 12 boards were used. Sydney won, eight to four.

Figured To A Minute

Mrs. Henepenck is going away for the first time in her married life.

Mrs. Henepenck: "Do you know what time my train goes tomorrow?"

Henepenck: "Yes, dear, now it is 19 hours 37 minutes."

Never hit a man when he's got you down.

Bride: "Did all your bachelors congratulate you?"

Bridgroom: "Yes. Some of them thanked me!" — Sondagssmisse-Strix, Stockholm.

Used His Prerogative

Judge Ruled Man Can Stretch His Imagination When Courting

Superior Judge Thomas Gould sat in court at Los Angeles, where Lotus Phillips entered a plea for the annulment of her marriage to Stanley Phillips. The ground was that when Stanley had come to do his courting he had made promises of a bright future. He was a man of some importance according to his own statements. After the marriage Lotus found that her husband was a very ordinary person, possessed of little cash, and he failed rather dismally to live up to the picture of opulence he had painted in former days.

But the judge held that the lady in the case had no grounds to secure an undoing of the marriage tie. He even went so far as to state plainly that men had for years been painting rosy pictures of what they would do if the little lady would only say yes. His worship said there was no written law which held in check the language used in courting, and a man's tongue could wiggle as much as he pleased to make it wiggle in his efforts to win the object of his affection.

Of course, by the same token, there is no law which makes it necessary for the lady to believe all that the avrant is saying. She can listen to his pleading, and then say a very

Primitive Motor Cars

Engined Had the First Self-Propelled Road Vehicle

Austria recently celebrated the anniversary of Siegfried Marcus, whose Central European claim as the origin of the first motor vehicle is well known. His first car, which he operated in 1864, says an item in Answers, was driven by oil, and an improved edition of it came before the public in 1875. This Marcus' car was not the first self-propelling road vehicle. A British inventor, Richard Trevithick, ran a steam coach on the London streets 125 years ago, and for a long time the steam road vehicle was a real competitor of the railways. The use of oil in Marcus' car, however, makes it a real landmark in the story of mechanical road transport.

Plans To Construct

Perfect Parachute

Will Be Fool-Proof Says Former "Boy Acrobaut"

Nationally acclaimed as "Prince the Boy Acrobaut" in the gay '90s, Leo Stevens hoped to claim his career as an acrobat with the construction of a parachute lighter than any now in use and "fool-proof" in the sense that it will never fail to open.

Besides opening unfailingly, through air pressure, even if the aviator's hands should "freeze" so that he is unable to yank the controlling cord, Stevens' new parachute, he says, will be under control at all times. It will float, too, or bring the flier to the surface should he be flung into a lake or stream, or the sea.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALICE MICHAELLE

NO WORDS

When I was deep in sorrow
To you I sang my ait.
From you I sought to borrow
Strength not to be afraid;
And all my need was spoken
And all my want revealed,
While silence was unbroken,
In silence I was healed.

When I was thrilled with rapture
As joys un dreamed I gained,
With goals life let me capture
And dearest hopes attained.

To you I yearned, sharing
My gladness, from far lands,
To you I hastened, bearing
My bliss in open hands.

Yet by no words are speeded
The secrets I impart,
No words from me are needed
To reach your loving heart!

Death Of Inventor

Passing Of Man Who Gave Cream Comes To The World

Charles E. Menches, who invented the ice cream cones, died at his home in Akron, Ohio, recently. He was 72 years old.

During his career as an actor, circus performer and hotel owner, Mr. Menches was credited with many inventions, but none of them struck the fancy public as did his edible ice cream container. He also claimed the invention of the "Hamburg" sandwich, and of the game of throwing baseballs at a human face.

Without Argument

After a young lawyer had talked with the judge in a case, a grizzled old veteran of the legal cockpit, rose, smiled sweetly at the judge and juries, and said: "Your Honor, I will follow the example of my young friend who has just concluded, and will submit the case without argument."

Barber's Itch and Ringworm are relieved by Ida Oil—considering the qualities of Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil it is the cheapest of all preparations offered to the public. It is to be had from dealers in Canada from coast to coast and all country merchants keep it for sale. So, being easily procurable and extremely moderate in price, no one should be without a bottle of it.

—Bad Deal All Around.

Judge: "You, a respectable young man, stole a coat. In consequence you have lost your post, and brought trouble and sorrow to your parents."

Accused: "Yes, and it was too tight into the bargain."

What We Pay For

A student once claimed that the difference between electricity and lightning was that you didn't have to pay for the lightning. What one has to pay for is not the electricity, but the trouble of getting it under control.

"Let me depart, that I may go to mine own country."—1 Kings xi. 21.

For strangers into life we come,

And dying is but going home.

How can a great soul be happy here? Those who have been amid mountains, and are condemned to live on plains, die of an incurable nostalgia. It is because we have issued from above that we sigh for it, and that all music is to us a reminiscence of our home—a ranz des vaches to the exiled Swiss. An infinite love supposes an infinite object. If all the forests were pleasure-parks, and all the lakes were fortunate isles, and all the fields were elysian, and all eyes were full of joy, oh! then—but no, then the infinite love of the earth would be perpetual. But now that no man here has hours of idleness, so many fields are fields of battle, so many faces are pale, so many eyes are dulled with tears and closed, when things are thus, how can the tomb be the end of all?—Jean Paul Richter.

Run "Walking-Stick" Farm

Kentish Villager Plants Seedling and Trains It As Ordered

Bob Body, the "Walking-Stick Man" who lives in Snodland, a village in Kent, is the greatest authority on his craft in the world. He does not rely on machinery for his sticks, but on skilful training. When he receives an order, he plants an ash seedling, and the finished stick is exactly as it has grown, with the exception that a female has been fitted. Each stick has Mr. Body's personal attention. He watches its growth, eliminates its weaknesses, and carefully strengthens it. A stick for a millionaire grows next to a stick for a Scotch shepherd. Mr. Body has grown walking-sticks for many years. He lives in a caravan on his farm. He has his queer customers. One very heavy stick with a special knob on the top is being prepared for an old lady who lives alone and is afraid of burglars.

Source Of Grain Rust

Western Canada Plague Traced To Raspberry Bushes In Mississippi Valley

Responsibility for grain rust in western Canada was traced to raspberry bushes in the upper Mississippi Valley and in southern Texas by B. Peterson, of the Dominion rust laboratory, addressing the Canadian Society of Agriculturalists at Winnipeg. The Mississippi Valley, he said, was the chief source of local rust epidemics, but spread to western Canada, and winter in Texas.

Of 25 known varieties of eat rust he added, nine were to be found in western Canada, and no eat variety was resistant to them all.

Fernie Bahia—the unrivaled toilet cosmetic. Essential to every dainty woman. Imparts rare charm and beauty to the complexion. Softens and beautifies the skin. Makes hands amazingly white. Being a perfume relieves roughness. Ideal for true feminine distinction. Delicately fragrant. Swiftly absorbed into the tissues, leaving no stickiness. Fernie Bahia lotion creates a subtle delicate balance and charm.

Palpitation of the Heart Could Hardly Get Around

Mrs. Charles Stornie, R.R. 5, Pictou, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with palpitation of the heart; couldn't sleep, day or night, and was so weak I could hardly get around."

After taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I was greatly relieved of these attacks.

My mother also has great faith in them and finds no other medicine can help her so much for heart trouble.

I can assure you that Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are a wonderful builder."

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gamble, Dec. 14, a daughter.

E. D. Battrum, of Calgary, official auditor, was at the town office this week. His report was placed before the regular meeting of the town council.

V. A. Bowes, assistant district passenger agent, C.P.R., Calgary, called on Agent McKinnon and business men on Wednesday.

An airplane journeyed west on Wednesday last, with a very cold head wind to fly against, again demonstrates the feasibility of the southern route over the Rockies.

Various cities and towns are proposing to make the day following Christmas a holiday, so that it will make an unbroken week-end holiday from Thursday night till Monday morning.

Lyman Robert Borden, known as "Bob," is now a King's Scout, having passed all tests, and is the first boy in the Crows Nest Pass troops to be awarded this distinction. He has taken a keen interest in the local troop since it was re-organized.

An address by Dr. Borden to the Tuxis group last week was highly appreciated. Other local people will address the boys during the winter. The group is in charge of Ernest Houghton, who arranges the programs, and is doing good work among the boys. He states it was not the Tuxis group which was defeated in a hockey match by Blairmore Tuxis. The team was Albert Knowles' rink rats.

The pupils of W. J. Harris, music teacher, gave a concert last week at Michel, and Rev. A. E. Larke assisted in the program. Mr. Harris has bravely carried on during the time of depression in instilling in the young mind a knowledge of music, and though his work may not be as spectacular as those who perform before a big audience, he is performing useful service by inculcating a knowledge and love for the finer things of life. His work deserves acknowledgement.

The Pythian Sisters last week were hosts to their grand chief, Sister M. McCuish of Edson, Alberta. Whilst in Coleman she was the guest of Mrs. Gledenning. On Wednesday evening a banquet was served in the hall, the tables being tastefully decorated with streamers and flowers, presenting a very delightful scene. Following the dinner, a whisky drive was held, the prizes being won by Mrs. Wm. Cousins, Mrs. W. Nelson, Steve Penny and Mr. Wilsonholm. John Delham won the mystery box.

BLAIRMORE, TAKE NOTICE!
The Enterprise states: "Jimmy" Joyce showed up his real mettle in the hockey game here on Tuesday night. Jimmy displays a brand of hockey that is the cleanest and most effective ever witnessed locally, and with his assistance the Coleman aggregation should go a long way this season.

Now this is a nice bouquet for Jimmy, and doubtless the Blairmore players will enjoy having such a good example set before them.

GERMAN REMEDY STOPS 30-YEAR CONSTIPATION

"For 30 years I had a bad stomach and constipation. Souring food from stomach choked me. Since taking Adierika I am a new woman. Constipation is thing of the past." —Alice Barnes.

Most remedies reach only lower bowel. That is why you must take them often. But this simple German remedy, Adierika, works on the upper and lower bowel. It brings out all gas and rids you of poison you would never believe was in your system. Even the FIRST dose will surprise you. —H. C. McBurney, Druggist.
